A MUSEUM MADE OF FANTASY

Have you ever imagined walking side by side with a 25 foot dragon, looking across a field and seeing a unicorn running, taking a photo of bigfoot or running in fear from a werewolf attack? One project hopes to deliver all this and more. The Museum of Mythical History, is a vision and labor of love started by fantasy artist William Hammock. Mythology has been a part of human history since the dawn of mankind. Blending history and entertainment the museum hopes to deliver a unique, educational, and awe inspiring experience to all visitors. The website www.mythicalmuseum.com, has garnered over 400 fans in under one month and is starting to attract the attention of other professionals as well. The best part about becoming a fan is that you can help build the museum as well by emailing your suggestions and uploading fan art. Using the fan function of Facebook, the museum is gathering supporters to entice potential sponsors which will make this mythical museum a reality.
